

What is that?

CAN YOU IDENTIFY THIS 'ROOT'? (submitted by visitor, Ines Huntley)

My husband and I found these odd tubers after we cleared some trees and shrubby bushland under our power lines. The CD shows you the size. This particular specimen is a medium sized one, many were larger and longer and connected by fibrous thin roots. Is this an edible root? (Bush tucker perhaps?) Can anyone give us the name of the tree or shrub that this tuberous root belongs to?
